

The ALEXANDER HAMILTON INSTITUTE
presents

The Sixth Annual David Aldrich Nelson Lecture in Constitutional Jurisprudence

“Is the Constitution a Cage?”

A Lecture by Professor Keith E. Whittington, William Nelson Cromwell Professor of Politics at Princeton University

Professor Whittington is an award-winning author of various works on American constitutional theory and development, federalism, judicial politics, and the presidency. He will be discussing the authority an inherited constitution has for the current generation, and how we live with a relatively inflexible constitutional text.
